GOVERNOR DELIVERS MESSAGE TO LOCAL CLUBSGOVERNOR BRANDON

The Malone building housed a company of people last night that any community may well be proud of. The company was large, filling almost entirely the large north apartment of the Malone building, and the crowd that heard the governor would have much more than filled the place had all come within.

Not since the days of world war activities here has such an enthusiastic gathering assembled under one roof.

Second to no attraction of the evening—not even to the addresses of the distinguished visitors—was the music given by the Albany-Decatur concert band, which made its first public appearance last night.

The list of speakers included, Gov. W. W. Brandon, Andrew G. Patterson, chairman of the Alabama Public Service Commission; John R. Witt, first vice president of the Alabama Farm Bureau; James F. Cain, president of the Morgan County Farm Bureau; J. C. Ford, Morgan County Farm Agent; George D. Williamson, Edward F. Baird, president of the Kiwanis club, and J. W. Clifton, president of the Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Baird introduced Mr. Patterson who spoke just ahead of the governor and Mr. Clifton introduced the governor. When he arose led by Marvin Rankin, song and cheer leader, the governor soon found himself surrounded by hundreds of singing and cheering men, who asked if "Bill" Brandon was not all right and who replied to their own question with a mighty yell of "Yes, He's All Right." The governor drew the first shouts—there was cheering all the time—when he declared that when selfish interests ceased to hinder, that Henry Ford would be put in charge of the government property at Muscle Shoals. The applause was just as hearty and the shouting quite as loud when the governor said he was for one city instead of two. He said that standing aloof would not accomplish anything worthwhile and advised that it was "good for brethren to dwell together in unity."

Governor Brandon endorsed the Greater Alabama movement, better opportunities for the farmers, better schools, better roads and better homes. "Dixie" was played when the governor took his seat amid wild cheering.

The governor had said a while before during his speech that every boy should be made to salute the American flag, and that they ought to yell like the devil every time "Dixie" was played.

In his address Mr. Patterson reminded his old friends and neighbors of what magnificent opportunities were before them and the entire state and the entire southland. He quoted at length from Roger W. Babson, and Richard M. Edmonds as to the natural advantages of the south. The speaker took occasion to commend the efforts of the Alabama Power company, and asked that the citizenship encourage and support that organization in its laudable enterprises. John R. Witt made an intelligent and also impassioned plea for fuller support to the farming interests.

Mr. Witt's address was one of the most comprehensive ones made during the evening excepting those of the governor and Mr. Patterson.

He laid it on the hearts of his hearers.

MURDER "WOMAN" HAD LEGAL WIFE

Fred Thompson in two poses.

These two photographs are of Fred G. Thompson, held in Chicago on the charge of being the "bandit queen" who murdered Richard O. Tesmer, insurance broker, who tried to save his wife's wedding ring from a hold-up "woman." For fourteen years Thompson has posed as "Mrs. Francis Carrick" wife of a chauffeur. The remarkable part of the dual life is that Thompson himself had a wife, Mrs. Marie Clark whom he married two years ago. This marriage so angered Carrick, who had "married" Thompson, that a fight resulted, ending in all three living together in a strange compact.

Tuskegee Protests Placing of Blacks
In Charge of The Negro Hospital There

(Associated Press.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 29.—Vigorous protests on the part of Tuskegee citizens against the placing of negro officials and physicians in charge of the Memorial hospital at Tuskegee continues.

A letter from Senator R. H. Powell of Tuskegee, reads in part as follows:

"The Associated Press today carries the news in a letter from Director Hines to President Harding, that in a very few days now the government hospital at Tuskegee will be changed from a white personnel to an entire negro personnel. The press news for the past few weeks has prepared us for this announcement, and it simply means that every white employee and every white official at the government hospital will be replaced by a negro. What a travesty on justice! What a breach of faith and confidence on the part of the government towards a trusting people!

"The guarantee of the government is to be ignored; the expressed wish of the citizenship of this community, both white and black; it to ruthlessly set aside and trampled under foot; for political purposes or through reasons of expediency, a white personnel already here and installed will be picked out, and a negro personnel ushered in. We people who live here, and whose homes, property rights, and possible lives, will be totally affected by this announced intention of the authorities at Washington, feel outraged at such action of our government. Is the written promise of this government, its solemn pledge to a confiding people, like the German treaty when war clouds hovered—merely a scrap of paper? Here is the story:

"When it was suggested that the hospital for disabled soldiers be built here, our white people objected seriously. Other cities and towns throughout the country had refused to let it come within their borders. Tuskegee, of all places, because of its peculiar local situation, could not afford to receive such an institution. A government agent, Major W. N. Kenzie, was sent here 'to sound out' the people. He announced to everyone that the hospital would be absolutely controlled and managed by whites. He said that no possible friction between the races could develop because no authority or control of any kind would be placed in the hands of the negroes. This statement was not received with much effect, as his authority to make such representation was doubted, and he promptly wired Washington for a written statement backing up his representations to us.

"In response, the following telegram was sent him, and the committee that visited that visited Washington recently saw the original on file in the Treasury department: 'August 24, 1921. Major W. N. Kenzie, Tuskegee, Ala. I assure you that hospital will be controlled and operated by whites. (Signed) William Charles White.'

"Dr. White was, at that time, chief and head of the department that had full authority to locate and build hospitals and is still serving as the head of this department, though the operation of all hospitals has been turned over to another department.

"That telegram was shown the people of Tuskegee, both white and black, and by means of this written guarantee from a government in which we reposed trust and confidence, the opposition of the people of this community was overcome, and the people agreed that the hospital might be built here. Some of our white citizens, and the Tuskegee Institute, donated lands to the government, gave rights of way for a road and assisted and co-operated in every way, trusting fully and completely in the government's promise and guarantee. In this manner was the hospital located here and construction permitted. Now our people ask:

"Was the hospital built on fraud, misrepresentation and deception?"

"Were the people tricked so that the government might get a foot hold here and then use this hospital and our peaceful little community as a political foothold to be kicked about at the whim and pleasure of whatever party or individual might be in power?"

"Was such a result foreseen? Certainly not by our white citizenship, or the hospital would never have been located here. Could the Tuskegee Institute be so easily deceived?"

WOODEN STRUCTURE

Chamber Of Commerce Home

The work of razing the Bob Jones tabernacle, which was recently sold by the Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce to D. S. Echols, was begun yesterday. The weather boards on the east side of the structure are being torn away. Some who had garage accommodations in the tabernacle are seeking other quarters for their automobiles.

With the passing of the Bob Jones tabernacle, while it is not an old building it has a considerable history.

In the first place it was erected at a cost of about $2,000 by contributions made from many hundreds of people in the Twin-Cities, to provide a place for the now celebrated Bob Jones meeting held in the fall of 1920.

Later the building was bought by a stock company as it stood after the meeting and fitted up for a "community house" where provision was made to accommodate automobile tourists.

During the period of un-employment about two years ago, a soup kitchen was opened in a room provided in the tabernacle and hundreds received free meals from the kitchen.

From time to time numerous large gatherings have assembled in the "Bob Jones Tabernacle" as the building has been called, the most considerable of these gatherings being the George Tucker evangelistic meeting held here over a year ago.

During the past winter the basketball teams of both the Decatur and the Albany high schools used the tabernacle for match and practice games.

When the Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce sold the building, which it received as a gift from the Community club, it was the understanding the proceeds of the sale were to go into a fund to be used later for the erection of a building for the home of the Albany-Decatur Chamber of Commerce.

French Strong
On Aeronautics

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, June 29.—The chamber of deputies last evening approved an appropriation of two hundred eleven million francs to be used in the development of aeronautics by the French government.

The socialist deputies called attention to the fact that the appropriation had been raised from 36,000,000 francs.

Deputy Bannet protested any inference suggestive of possibility of France attacking England and the deputies greeted him with applause. He said that the move was made to resist any effort by Germany to fail on the reparations plan.

Man knocked Down
On Second Avenue

A man said to have been W. F. Price of Caddo was knocked down at the intersection of Moulton street and Second avenue by a slowly moving automobile which was turning into Second avenue and proceeding toward Decatur.

The unfortunate man suffered bruises about the head and face and was assisted to a nearby drug store by bystanders.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Great Britain's flat rejection of the American proposal for the prohibition 12-mile limit left the government no alternative today. It was said authoritatively today that there was no choice but to wait the will of Congress as to a revision of the law and meanwhile to refuse admission of ships carrying liquor.

Formal comment on British Foreign Minister Curzon's statement in parliament yesterday was not available. There is no doubt however that Curzon's implications that the ship liquor question was raised by the United States to afford a treaty agreement is not in accordance with the facts as they are understood at Washington.

It is pointed out that the cases which resulted in the supreme court decision to prevent liquor carriage in American waters resulted in the action of foreign shipping companies which sought to prevent application of the ruling.

Up to the time that the question of the foreign shipping companies being legally allowed to ship into American ports it was understood that on the other hand liquor smuggling from foreign ships hovering outside the 3-mile limit was even then a difficult problem of law enforcement for the American government.

Typhoid Attacked
By Local Physician

The county health authorities are doing considerable inoculation against typhoid fever according to announcement of Dr. H. C. McRee, county health officer made this morning.

Dr. McRee stated this service was being done gratis and purely as a precautionary measure as there was no typhoid fever epidemic in the county.

Miss Ella Dale, county nurse is in Masses today where she is inoculating against typhoid. Dr. McRee was at Taluka several miles up the river yesterday giving inoculations and on Wednesday he was in the northwest part of the county doing the same service.

A large number of the nurses at the Benevolent hospital were inoculated against fever recently.

MINERS DEMANDS
HAIKED CONVENTION

(Associated Press.)

SCRANTON, Pa., June 29.—A demand for a 20 per cent increase in the contract wage scale with an increase of a dollar a day was presented to the anthracite miner's convention here today.

The list of demands are along the same line as the demands of the miner's made in January 1922 which preceded the five months strike. It is thought that the convention will act on the demands during the coming week.

Asphalt Attracts Foreign Interest

HARTSELLE, Ala., June 29.—For a long time it has been known that asphalt existed here, in quantities varying from 1 to 5 per cent. Investigations have been made from time to time by large companies dealing in this class of builders material, and now a Bowling Green, Ky., company have a force of men using core drills taking sample of the rock near town for analytical purposes.

Excavations were made last year on the Z. D. Parker place, 1 mile southeast of this place, where the drills are now at work. At a former time the rock was blasted to considerable depth, much of it being rich in asphalt.

In making the excavation for the First National Bank building now in course of erection here, it was necessary to do considerably blasting. The rock is found to contain from 1 to 5 per cent asphalt, by those familiar with the product.

It seems reasonable to assume that with the investigations being made from time to time, some tangible results will be obtained and the not distant future will see some development of a character which will not only produce large quantities of this valuable road building material, and at the same time bring in large revenues to the county.

The rock in which this material is found has all the appearance of black limestone. It exists in almost unlimited quantities in various places over the county, and should it be found to contain asphalt in sufficient quantities, development will certainly be made.

A preparation known as Cal-Sulphur is now being used with great success here by gardeners and truckers in the control of the Mexican bean beetle. One or two applications rid the vines of the pest and guarantees a crop of the vegetables.

The occupation is a penalty for German advances in this district against the French forces and sabotage on the railroad.

Girl Is Found
On Lonely Road
Near State Line

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, June 29.—Miss Genevieve Sprague of South Holland, a suburb, had been kidnapped Sunday by two men who forced her out of an automobile on which they were riding. She was found today on a lonely road in an unconscious condition. Two men were identified by the young woman and were captured today at Hammond, Ind.

The girl was riding in an automobile with R. A. Trussell of Dolton, Ill., late yesterday afternoon near the Indiana state line when they were stopped by the two men supposedly bandits.

The bandits drew revolvers and forced Trussell to leave the machine. Trussell notified the Hammond police and a night search was made for the kidnapers. It was after dawn when the girl was found and soon afterwards two men were seen walking down the railroad tracks. Police took up the trail and chased the men into a marsh where several shots were fired before the men were captured.

The prisoners gave their names as Frank Kelley of New York city and James Car, of Funcie Indiana.

The captured men were identified by Miss Sprague as the men who had stopped the automobile the afternoon before.

Governor Hardwick
Advocates Action
Against Masking

(By The Associated Press.)

ALBANY, Ga., June 29.—Governor Hardwick today delivered his final message to the Georgia general assembly pointing out that in view of the fact that "not only a possible but a probable crop failure in Georgia this year is to occur." He advocated the strictest economy in all agricultural products.

The governor also appealed for law and order. He asserted that in Georgia "there is no room for lawless government of any kind," he continued "the government of Georgia should be open and above board." He also recommended that there be a law passed imposing a heavy penalty for masking in public.

"We have no room in Georgia for religious or political fanaticism," he said. "Georgia is to remain a free state. We have no room for fanaticism in any form."

A HEART TO HEART TALK ON ADVERTISING.

There are certain inevitable costs in connection with the disposition of goods and products. Take a case of dry goods. They must often wait in some warehouse until an order comes for their sale to the wholesale man. The space in the warehouse costs money. The man who built the warehouse must have his money out of the investment. The costs for insurance on the warehouse and the labor costs must be paid, and the money to pay these bills must come out of the goods that are being taken care of in the warehouse. The clerical salaries and the rents of offices engaged in getting the goods from the warehouses to the open markets must be paid out of the goods. The salesmen who are put on the road to sell the goods must live. In no way is any intrinsic value added to the goods, but their cost to the consumer must necessarily increase.

Another inevitable cost to be placed on the goods in question is the advertising necessary to attract the attention of the reading public to where they will see the goods as they are and hence their need of the goods.

It will appear on a little investigation that the money put into advertising does more to "turn the trick" so to speak of getting the goods used, and at a smaller percentage cost than any of the other things that have to be done before the goods in question are taken from the factory where they are made, and put on the backs of the people who finally wear the clothes until they are worn out, or until they are resold or given away. A fair illustration of what advertising does and its small cost for doing it is seen in a quotation from Scammon Lockwood in a recent issue of Collier's Week-ly as follows:

A concern is now advertising extensively in an effort to educate us all to the importance of insulation on piping and heaters in domestic heating plants. They claim that by the use of insulation to the cost of $100 and save $25 worth of coal every year. What portion of this $100 investment represented advertising cost? Less than a dollar was spent for the purpose of telling you what it is, what it will do, and what it costs, and where it may be obtained. Certainly that transaction shows a profit all round.

In other words the cost of advertising is a trifle on each individual article sold.

Advertising is also a valuable safe guard to the buying public, as it seldom pays to advertise an inferior article. The cost of distribution of goods is a large item. It must be large, as so many human hands handle goods, and as so many human brains must think and plan to get the goods sold, and these human beings must live and they must be true there is too much "spread" between the producer and the final consumer, but in that advertising prepares the way for sale at small cost, it therefore reduces the cost on goods to the consumers.

ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN IS ON.

With the pledge of the county chairmen to support the "Greater Alabama" advertising campaign at Montgomery Wednesday that statewide movement for result-getting publicity of the state's resources appears to have been advanced to the line of practical performance. While each county is to be advertised through funds contributed by it, the county chairman grasped the intent of the "Greater Alabama" idea, which is to advertise the state as a whole; to focus attention on this state through well-distributed publicity as has been successfully done for California, Florida, North Carolina and other well-advertised states.

There is no doubt of the agricultural, mineral and water power wealth of Alabama. Alabamians know that, but it does precious little good to Alabamians to keep it to themselves. The need is to investing capital so that it will come here and place is money in the various fields ripe for profitable investment. The good merchant advertises. The up-to-date industry advertises. There is no reason why the offerings of an entire state may not be benefited from judicious advertising the same as an iron or steel product, an agricultural implement or a sewing machine. The outsider cannot be reached except through publicity channels of the broadest scope and circulation. It costs money to use this means of publicity, but results will be in keeping with its use. The $600,000 asked for a three-year campaign of publicity is none too large.—Birmingham Age Herald.

Two kinds of people who may be wise, but they are utterly useless, those who are tired of business and those to whom success has become a bore.

What is the use of a person who says in his or her heart "What's the use?"

If the people happen to think what a nice cool summer Mr. Harding is having in Alaska they are apt to turn green with envy and not return him to the White House.

Paper Justifies Increase Water Rate

In discussing the Atlanta Water-works raise which increases 25 per cent after July 1 the Montgomery Advertiser says:

"Many of our people have somehow imbibed the idea that municipal ownership is a sort of fairy which gets money out of the air and that if a municipality loses money in its business enterprises by charging low rates, that is only what the people are entitled to.

"No business man would run an enterprise without charging off as a depreciation the wear and tear of his equipment.

"As a general thing, however, the bookkeepers of municipal business enterprises do not trouble themselves with any question of deterioration.

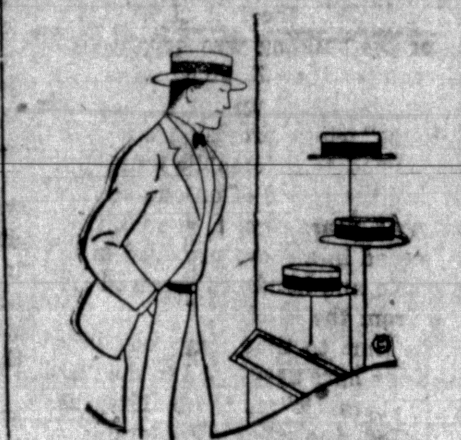

"But Atlanta has discovered that the paper profits have disappeared. She faces the facts that have been acknowledged by so many southern cities, that it is losing money on its water works. It is faced by one of two alternatives. Raise the taxes of the citizens as a whole to pay the losses or raise the water charges on users. It increased the water rates. There was no good fairy to stand by to conjure the money out of the air."

San Marino.
The republic of San Marino is regarded as the smallest country in the world. It lies in the peninsula of Italy near the Adriatic coast. Its area is 34 square miles; its population in 1910 was 10,459.

How to build up your Weight

TO be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus.

That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger also is more economical.

UNIVERSITY PROF. ATTRIBUTES DIVORCE TO ILL HEALTH

NEW YORK, June 29.—Ill health is the cause of 75 per cent of the divorces, according to Dr. Rudolph M. Binder, the noted professor of sociology at New York University. In commenting on the statement made recently by Hugo Peitsch that physical training for women would in 10 years make divorce as rare as a horse and buggy, Dr. Binder said that physical training would undoubtedly reduce the divorce rate by increasing the general health of mind and body, but not by making pugilists of women.

"Domestic happiness is based on physical prowess of the superiority of strength of either the husband or wife," said Dr. Binder. "Physical training for wives is not advantageous for the purpose of making the women's aim perfect or their muscles strong enough to knock out their husbands with a stiff uppercut to the jaw. This would be a reversion to primitive man's tactics with little hope of peace after the battle, anyway. The benefits derived from athletic work are of lasting value both to men and women. Proper exercise in the open air is bound to result in improved, if not perfect health.

"Although Mr. Peitsch's statement sounds very sweeping, a study of the persons who appear in the divorce courts would soon convince one that it is the nervous, high strung and under nourished persons who complain of unhappy homes. The reason for this is that either the husband or the wife, or both, are of low vitality. So when the husband comes home at night after eight hours work in the office and is greeted by his wife who has been working equally hard at home all day, their nerves are on edge and the least incident precipitates a quarrel. If both are nervous and living on a constant verge of hot arguments, dissatisfaction is bound to follow.

"Well-bred persons resist a fist fight and ugly scenes, but the tension is there just the same. Constant irritation wars on the nervous system, and instead of disappearing as situations arise it accumulates until there is a break. We can brace ourselves against large misfortunes but the little misadventures wear out our mental and physical strength. If there is not stamina for combating the petty details of living then some outside means be employed to create it.

"The only recognition of this domestic condition as a cause for divorce is incompatibility of temperament. But it actually underlies the many other causes which the courts allow. When persons are too much alike and when there is no calm one to offset the excitability of the other, trouble follows sooner or later. Physical and mental incompatibility leads to other forms of misery, with the result that the home is anything but congenial.

"In former days the man resorted to the cafe and saloon for comfort. Where he goes today is a matter for conjecture. Wherever it is, it is certain to be some place where he can find the companionship of persons who apparently are different from his wife and to whom he can recite his tales of woe. This condition undoubtedly leads to adultery which is a recognized cause for divorce practically everywhere.

"Women are not able to go out with quite the same freedom as men even now, so they take it out on the children or fight with the neighbors. The nervous system becomes overloaded with tension and an outlet must be found somewhere for relief. But the children of such parents are the sufferers. They inherit nervous tendencies and naturally reproduce in their own lives the conditions under which their parents lived. Their environment is one of continual misunderstandings and unhappiness.

"More physical outdoor exercises would undoubtedly counteract irritability by creating health and restoring to normal conditions all the body functions. Games and the various athletic sports demand self control and afford a natural outlet for excess nervous energy. Exercise which requires poise soon develops it spontaneously and if followed regularly will change a tired, irritable person into a healthy and happy human being. Where husbands and wives are cheerful a sharp word by either one is easily turned off and forgotten.

"Healthy men and women rarely resort to divorce. The physically weak from lack of sleep, poor heredity, malnutrition and the sub-normal make up the long line of persons waiting to air their grievances before the judge whom they hope will remove their wedding bonds."

Tuskegee Protests Of Black In Charge

stitute have afforded to experiment with the foothold that it had gained through the passing years, and would it knowingly have donated land and had established here a thing that may prove a curse to it and the race that it seeks to serve and benefit? Could either the white citizenship or the negro race here have been a party to any plans that did not have back of it the solemn guarantee and assurance that it would not work destruction on the good will and harmony that have existed so long between the white and negro races? Assuredly the town and the institute believed that the government would live up to its promise regarding white control and the operation of its hospital. Where, then, rests the responsibility for diverting the government from its promised course.

"From such information as we have been able to get together, we place this responsibility upon the National Negro Medical association, backed up and urged by a few pie-hungry and discredited negro politicians.

"Few people, comparatively understand the situation here. Tuskegee is a splendid little city. As fine white citizenship lives here as anywhere in this country. Its a city of attractive homes, well kept lawns, substantial business houses, splendid churches, good schools and has always had a solid, strong financial foundation. One of the oldest of Alabama's communities, for practically 100 years, it has been the home of the white man, who in the pioneer days fought the savage and the wild beasts and planted his foot firmly and determinedly on the ground where he expects to stay and rule supreme.

"Forty-two years ago, Booker T. Washington started here his school for negroes. He was asked to come here by George W. Campbell, one of the most influential white citizens who served as a trustee up to his death. Invited here by Tuskegee white citizens, protected, assisted, and backed financially and otherwise by Tuskegee white citizens, he said repeatedly that 'the Tuskegee Institute for negroes is founded upon the good will of the Tuskegee white man.' Without that it would have died of its own weakness at the beginning.

"In a town like Tuskegee where there is a school like the Tuskegee Institute, a third party has come. In steps the government. Coming under the promise of control and management that will continue existing relations between the races without conflict, it builds its hospital. Rumors that negroes, ignorant of white man's traditions, full of prejudice are coming to take charge. The whites will have to leave. The promise and guarantee, according to press reports, has been repudiated and the local institution is ignored and disregarded.

"No one can definitely foresee the end. Where peace and harmony once reigned supreme, rumors of strife, open threats, and impending friction are present.

"We want the people away from here to understand the situation. We have a just and honest claim against the government in this matter. No hospital would have ever been permitted here except under the conditions set forth. To deprive the white man of than control and operation, which is absolutely essential to the preservation of our friendly race relations and thus endanger our town, our lives and our homes, is an outrage. We only ask the government not to destroy our happiness. We know that negro officers with uniforms and big salaries, and the protection of Uncle Sam will turn Tuskegee into a place of riot. The responsibility will have to be placed where it belongs."

No More Yellow Skin For Howett

C. R. Howett, salesman, writes: "J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., I have delayed answering your letter as I have been waiting to see the results of taking your medicine. I did as you advised, took one bottle Mendenhall's Chill and Fever Tonic, without arsenic and followed with the chill tonic with arsenic and have taken two bottles. People all over my territory are complimenting me on my looks as my skin is no longer yellow and the jaundiced look and chronic malaria and chills have left me. I thank you a thousand times and you may use my name any time you wish, as I feel that I am cured." Mendenhall's Chill Tonic, without arsenic, should be taken in place of quinine for malaria, chills, fevers, colds, "flu" or gripe. Mendenhall's Chill Tonic, with arsenic, is the most successful agent in the treatment of chronic malaria, bilious, intermittent or malarial fever. Improves the appetite, strength and condition of the blood. Made by J. C. Mendenhall, Evansville, Ind., druggist since 1873.

J. COLLAS, Mgr.

Governor Brandon Given An Ovation At Malone Building

ers that something must be done to relieve the situation regarding farming. He declared there was too great "disparity in wages between what farmers can pay and what are paid in other occupations." Mr. Witt said it took 720 hens eggs to hire a paper hanger for eight hours work.

He said it took 50 pounds of lint cotton to pay an automobile mechanic for eight hours work. The speaker said that as a consequence of this kind of conditions "the farm lands are being deserted."

Mr. Witt declared that the agricultural interests "had been exploited."

The speaker showed how "night-riding" had passed after burley tobacco growers began to observe system in putting their product on the market. A strong plea was made for the farmers to get together in a collective selling organization.

Mr. Witt explained that the farm bureau was the outcome of the U. S. department of agriculture's activities rather than the offspring of "bubble bursting" farm organizations.

The management that had made the natural monopoly of the south—cotton growing—almost a curse to cotton raisers and that had made "poor groveling" people and had "sent many a poor bent little mother to a premature grave" was strongly denounced.

Mr. Patterson who followed Mr. Witt declared there was "great truth" in what the farm bureau chieftain had said to the company. Mr. Patterson said the farmers had not been given square deal, and that the present generation should be busy "in making reparations."

The banquet was served by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church of Decatur, which was greatly enjoyed by the large assembly. Following the meal, J. W. Clopton asked E. F. Baird, for an address, and the Kiwanian chief replied in a bright and attractive manner. He said with grace that the two principal speakers were "honored for the position they held, and loved because they were the men they are."

Two resolutions introduced by J. W. Clopton before the speaking began were passed amid enthusiasm.

One of the resolutions asks that local people "buy at home," and the resolution contained the names of many home-made articles. The other resolution asked that the people of the Twin-Cities display the American flag, according to the plans and specifications recommended by the government.

Mr. Clopton took occasion to commend the work of the Albany-Decatur concert band, and to remind the people it must be supported.

J. C. Ford county farm agent was the first of the out-of-town speakers to address the assembly. Mr. Ford said merchants should buy from farmers just as farmers bought from merchants and was heartily cheered.

James F. Cain, said the farmers had been groping in the dark, but that now they saw a great light and hope in collective selling for the products of the farm. "You help us and we will help you" said Mr. Cain. "The principle of co-operation carried into effect will make the land blossom like a rose. Mr. Witt thanked the financial institutions for their support. Cheering greeted Mr. Cain when he said "we want not only our farm agent, but we also want a home demonstration agent."

A. G. Patterson made tender reference to his home coming and spoke of what a satisfaction it was to be with those with whom he had long lived and wrought. He said the spirit of the meeting inspired him. Loud cheering followed Mr. Patterson's reference to the work of W. W. Rahm in connection with the location here of the Cooper-Wells Knitting mill and his other civic activities.

Governor Brandon was introduced by J. W. Clopton, and the speech of the chief executive of the state swept the great throng at the tables and throughout the building, and those about the doors away from self, to their city, county, state, national and home duties.

Governor Brandon denounced the idea of foreign immigration, of so much tampering with the school books, and took a rap at all political activities that are retarding human progress.

The speaker commended all that is considered good and noble and before he took his seat amid a description of the home and the place of good mothers and God in the home, he had brought his hearers to moral and religious heights seldom reached by such a large company.

Gov. W. W. Bandon and Mrs. Bandon and President of Alabama Public Service Commission A. G. Patterson on arrival yesterday afternoon were met by a reception committee. A committee of ladies entertained Mrs. Brandon until her departure for Sheffield in the evening, where she is now the guest of her brother. The distinguished party had a most cordial reception on arrival, the governor, accompanied by a committee of prominent men driving about the cities, visiting among other places the local water works and inspecting the improvements recently completed.
